

The United States has always been a place where free enterprise has been admired EXCEPT when the Federal Government interferes, and that is the correct word, by trying to regulate. It hasn't worked before and won't work now. There should be no restrictions on what satellite radio provides. To do so is at least un-American, if not anti-American.